Introduction

Dear reader,

The appeal of Amsterdam as a destination for superyachts – both in its own right and as a port of call enroute to Scandinavia and beyond – is increasingly on the radar of superyacht owners and captains. Port of Amsterdam is working closely together with other parties turning Amsterdam into the superyacht hub of Northern Europe and beyond.

Amsterdam's prime geographical location and friendly regulatory environment for large yachts is backed up by superb mooring spots in the heart of the city and the rich diversity of leisure opportunities on offer. The city is ideally situated as a start or ending point for the Northern European Route. Moreover, the options for refits are growing fast and there is a dense web of superyacht building yards, designers and suppliers in close proximity of the city.

Amsterdam is a city of great traditions and has a rich history. One of the traditions we embrace is the hand-over of the plaque and key of the city to ships during their first call. We continue this tradition for visiting superyachts. Captains and owners are pleased to receive this warm welcome and at the same time it gives us the opportunity to explain more about Amsterdam and the Northern European Route.

We are looking forward to welcome you!

PC Hooftstraat

Dutch Design week

A quiet transformation has been underway in the superyacht world now.

Where the Mediterranean and the Caribbean used to reign supreme in terms of both facilities and interest, a new generation of superyacht owners are increasingly looking for something more original. High latitudes are becoming ever more fashionable and northern Europe, with its superb nature, convivial culture and avant-garde art & design has been reaping the rewards.

In the past decade, Amsterdam has quietly become a luxury destination that measures up to any other. Drawn to the attraction of the beautifully preserved UNESCO World Heritage Canal Ring, the world's finest hotel have settled here. Michelin stars, the European standard of culinary excellence, have rained down on Amsterdam restaurants. And shopping definitely entered the glitzy stage, with PC Hooftstraat and Van Baerlestraat matching the likes of California's Rodeo Drive, but with added unique offerings from the world of renowned Dutch design.

History & Culture

From its humble beginnings as a 13th-century fishing village on a river bed to its current role as a major hub for business, tourism and culture, Amsterdam has had a strong tradition as a center of culture and commerce.

Alongside tulips and windmills, the global image of Amsterdam is one of a city entwined with water. From the 1500s onwards, Amsterdam gained a position square at the epicenter of global sea trade. Since its development in the 17th century, Amsterdam's Canal Ring has grown to be one of the world's most unique urban landscapes. The resulting wealth and knowledge of shipbuilding was instrumental in enabling the city to introduce pleasure sailing and open the world's first marina in 1622.

With 800 years of history, world-famous museums and galleries and a packed "what's on" agenda, Amsterdam's cultural life never fails to excite, inspire and surprise. There's something new to experience every day and night of the week in Amsterdam. Learn more about Dutch Master Painters like Rembrandt, Van Gogh and Vermeer. Enjoy music at The Royal Concertgebouw or visit the Amsterdam Dance Event. Or enjoy the picture-postcard beauty of the city aboard a luxury saloon boat.

Whether you're looking for Michelin standard cuisine or a cozy local restaurant, you'll find plenty to please your palate in Amsterdam. Make sure you check out the thriving bar scene too - watch the world go by from a canal side terrace, or head to a stylish cocktail bar if you're after something a little more shaken and stirred.

Amsterdam certainly holds its own on the restaurant front, offering a culinary melting pot reflective of the city itself. Restaurants offer everything a hungry visitor craves: from Indonesian to tapas, and from Mediterranean to modern Dutch. When it comes to bars, it's impossible to walk for more than 150ft in the city without stumbling across a cozy café or specialty bar, and indeed watching the world go by from the comfort of a canal side terrace bar is one of the most pleasurable ways to while away an afternoon in Amsterdam.

When it comes to eating out in Amsterdam, there's always something new and unique to try. With 16 Michelin-rated restaurants in Amsterdam carrying one (or two) of the coveted stars, the choices are as diverse as the city itself.

Amsterdam

Amsterdam is in a fantastic position, between the Atlantic and the Baltic, making it the ideal starting point for superyacht to the UK, The Fjords, Scandinavia and the Baltic. It is a vibrant city with world class musea, luxury shopping, culinary restaurants and famous festivals, truly a unique destination to explore.

The Netherlands

London

The buzzing London is a non-stop celebration of colour, sound, art and diversity. No doubt an integral holiday spot for any discerning traveller, this captivating city will always draw lovers of the high-life from their cruising grounds. London has less rain than Rome and more Michelin star restaurants than Paris.

United Kingdom

Bergen

Bergen hums with a lively beat that belies its age, welcoming visitors to its narrow, colourful streets and beautifully sheltered harbour. Nautical spirit is well and truly alive in this scenic city where colourful markets demand attention and the seafood is unbeatable. The wharfside area of Bryggen is particularly charming, lined with bright warehouses surrounded by quirky restaurants, cafés and artists' workshops.

Norway

Norwegian Fjords

Away from the colourful mainland cities lie Norway's proudest treasures; a collection of tremendous fjords that are both humbling and awe-inspiring. The Sognefjord is Norway's longest, sweeping through the heart of the Norwegian fjord country where it is surrounded by glistening glaciers and the country's highest mountains.

Geirangerfjord is a striking region where cascading waterfalls, rugged cliffs and tremendous mountains are mirrored in the deep blue stillness of the water, while further north, the Lofoten islands are a spectacular network of inlets and isles. One of the most impressive of all is the Naeroyfjord, one of the narrowest in Europe and included on UNESCO's World Heritage List. Sail past towering mountains, traditional farms and perhaps even glimpse seals basking on the rocks.

Norway

Stockholm

The thriving capital of Stockholm is the major attraction on the Swedish landscape, a regal city of beautiful architecture, charming waterfront districts and stunning cultural attractions. Travellers are greeted with an archipelago of over 20,000 islands upon entering Stockholm's magnificent waters, making the city a truly diverse and scenic yachting adventure.

Sweden

Copenhagen

Though it is the smallest Scandinavian country, Denmark is a sprawling success in the worlds of design, the arts, cuisine and architecture. Accompanied by their effortlessly cool style, Danes enjoy a tranquil environment of introspective, peaceful happiness. Denmark's capital of Copenhagen boasts the most Michelin-starred restaurants of any Scandinavian capital, though the entire region is blessed with establishments serving an exciting menu executed to the highest standard.

Denmark

Hamburg

Hamburg is Germany's most exciting waterfront City – and fascinates with its contrasts. Hamburg has it all – culture, architecture, nature and attitude. The magnificent Elbphilharmonie concert hall enchants beholders and already ranks among the most famous concert halls and architectural landmarks in the world. All the other attractions can be easily discovered within walking distance from the city centre: the museums, theatres, musicals, galleries as well as fancy restaurants and bars or flagship stores and elegant arcades. Hamburg is also the perfect hub for a tour to Berlin which is only 90 minutes away by train.
